Day 2: ST PETERSBURG
Breakfast at the hotel.
Overnight: St Petersburg

City tour with visit to St. Isaak Cathedral and Church on Spilled Blood, Visit to Russian Museum, boat tour – possible until October. (Duration of excursion: 8 hours)

The Cathedral, designed by the French architect Montferrand, is one of the finest monuments of the XIXth century, the former principal cathedral of the Russian capital. The largest cathedral in the city is able to accommodate about 13000. A characteristic feature of its decoration is the combination of monumental sculpture, painting and mosaic to form an overall artistic unity of the great power. The interior is richly adorned with marble, malachite, lapis lasuli, and porphyry. Approximately 220 pounds of precious metal were used for gilding its magnificent golden dome. The series of documents, plans, engravings and models show the history of the cathedral’s construction.

The Russian museum contains the world's largest and richest collections of Russian art. It is located in the Mikhailovsky Palace built by Carlo Rossi in 1825 for the youngest son of Tsar Paul I – Grand Duke Mikhail - and turned into the museum by Alexander III in 1898. The collection of Russian art spans from the icons of the 13th century to the Avantgarde paintings of the early 20th century including those by Kandinsky, Malevitch, Shagal and Altman. Also on display there is a wide collection of ceramics, iron works, porcelain, wood carvings, and lace.

Day 3: ST PETERSBURG - PUSHKIN
Breakfast at the hotel.
Excursion to Catherina’s Palace and Park including Amber Room (Pushkin) (duration: 4 hours)
